

WARNING TO FARMERS

Washington Says No Farm Loans Yet Authorized

SECRETARY TELLS OF FAKE

Schemes of Fake Solicitors Are Mainly in the West

Washington, Aug. 23.—Sec. Flannagan of the federal farm loan board yesterday issued a warning to farmers that solicitors are busy in several states without authority of the board, attempting to collect money for the organization of national farm loan associations. Such associations are authorized under the law and are to be formed by farmers who desire loans.

"The representation by any person that any organization is now offering to make loans by authority of the farm loan board under the federal farm loan act is false," said Mr. Flannagan, "and any attempt to collect money under such representations is fraudulent and is punishable by fine and imprisonment."

Mr. Flannagan said that information had been received from Montana, Idaho and other western states to the effect that unauthorized persons were soliciting subscriptions. He said that farmers should plan the organization of loan associations. "But," he said, "no money should now be paid in connection therewith to any person for stock or expenses, no matter what the representations may be."

Dates and places for hearings by the farm loan board on the western part of its present journey to collect information to aid in locating federal land banks were announced yesterday. These end Sept. 24, and the board will return to Washington on Sept. 26.

DIVIDED OVER FARM BANK

Business Men and Farmers in Doubt as to New Hampshire's Need of It

Concord, N. H., Aug. 23.—Decided differences of opinion as to the necessity of a federal farm loan bank to serve New Hampshire were brought out at a hearing in the federal building yesterday before the federal farm loan board. Fifty bankers, business men and farmers were present and much testimony was taken. While this was the only hearing for the states of New Hampshire and Vermont, no Vermonters appeared to speak. Hon. William G. McAdoo, secretary of the treasury, was ex-officio chairman and conducted the hearing, other members frequently interrupting the speakers with questions.

They were George W. Norris of Pennsylvania, farm loan commissioner; Herbert Quirk of West Virginia, Charles E. Lobben of Kansas and Capt. W. H. A. Smith of Iowa. Much valuable information was brought out regarding the improved condition of New Hampshire's agriculture. John J. Egan of Utica, N. Y., represented the farm loan board as secretary, and William J. Conlon of the Worcester Chamber of Commerce was on hand to work in favor of that place for the location of the proposed farm bank.

It is the general belief here that the bank for New England will go either to Springfield or Worcester, only one witness suggesting Concord as the best location.

Sec. McAdoo said that the purpose of the hearings was to determine the needs of various sections for a farm loan bank.

HOW TO BE RID OF DISGUSTING DANDRUFF

The only way to be permanently rid of disgusting, untidy dandruff is to correct its cause. Washing merely cleanses the scalp for a few days, and soon the scales form again as thick as ever.

To destroy the dandruff germ and get rid of dandruff for good, part the hair and apply a little of the genuine Parisian Sage directly on the bare scalp, and rub in with the finger tips for a few minutes, until the scalp absorbs it. Go over the entire head in this manner.

A few days' massage with Parisian Sage will destroy the germs that cause the dandruff to form. The scalp becomes healthy, the hair will grow better and show more life and vitality, and you need never be troubled by dandruff again. Faded, dull or lifeless hair is quickly restored to beauty by this simple process, which is absolutely harmless to hair and scalp, as it contains no poisonous chemicals and will not stain the hair or make it greasy.

Parisian Sage can be obtained from the Red Cross Pharmacy and drugstore everywhere. It is not expensive.—Adv.

MY LITTLE GIRL A TERRIBLE SIGHT

With Rash on Back and Arms. Also Over Face. Very Red. Formed Eruptions. Itched Badly.

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"My little girl was five years old when a rash broke out on her back and arms and also all over her face. When it first came out it was very red and then it began to form into eruptions like smallpox, and her face was so full of the eruptions that you could not put a pin head between them, and her eyes were closed. She was a terrible sight. She cried night and day the eruptions itched so badly, and I had to tie her hands so that she could not scratch. She also had a fever and was sick."

"The rash was very bad for three weeks. Then I got a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment and the eruption began to heal and after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Ointment she was healed." (Signed) Mrs. William Haines, Garrettsville, N. Y., Oct. 21, 1915.

'TWERE EVER THUS.

Mine be a cot beside the hill;
A beehive's hum shall soothe my ear;
A willow brook that turns the mill,
With many a fall, shall linger near.
A Wish.

The Dumb Waiter.

Countless steps are necessary before every meal, when several trips to the cellar are taken for milk, fruits, vegetables, preserves, butter, eggs, or salad dressing. The remnants of vegetables, the butter, milk, and all must be returned to the cool depths after the meal has been eaten. It is no longer necessary to run up and down the steps so often, for, thanks to some inventive soul, a dumb waiter will do many of the cellar errands.

Choose a little-used corner of the kitchen or pantry, and cut a liberal-sized trapdoor through the floor. Build a sort of large box frame with a tight-fitting lid, over this opening, making the top level with the floor, as this will be a convenient height when loading the waiter. Now build a tray within this box frame, but make it small enough to slide freely and easily through the trap, and operate it by a pulley. A swinging arm should be built to hold the tray while loading it in the kitchen, and a light frame below will serve the same purpose in the cellar. Now place the provisions on this tray, lower it into the cellar, close the lid of the cupboard above, and raise the tray when you desire the articles it holds.

Sweet Corn for Winter Use.

There is a possibility of having green corn on the cob for the Christmas dinner if one only prepares for it.

The thought of roasting ears in the winter-time makes the mouth of the grown-up "water" as surely as does the thought of stick candy or ice cream appeal to the appetite of the small boy with a newly acquired nickel in his pocket to make the desired purchase. They are not an impossibility.

As with all vegetables containing but little acid, corn should be canned the same day as gathered, and as soon after picking as possible. This will prevent "flat sour."

Remove the husks and silk, and grade for size. Blanch the cob in boiling water from five to fifteen minutes; plunge quickly into cold water. Pack ears, alternating butts and tips, in half-gallon glass jars or gallon tin cans. Pour over boiling hot water and add two level teaspoonsful of salt to each gallon. Place rubbers and tops in position. Seal partially but not tight. Sterilize in hot-water bath outfit three hours, one period. Remove the jars and tighten the covers.

A hot-water bath outfit can easily be arranged by placing a wire or wooden rack in the bottom of a wash boiler or a tall, thus raising the jars an inch and a half from the bottom of the boiler and preventing their becoming hot too suddenly.

When sweet corn is taken from the jar or tin can for table use, remove the ears as soon as the jar or can is opened. Do not allow the ears to stand in water or to be boiled in water a second time.

The method of canning corn cut from the cob is similar to the method followed in canning the whole ear.

Apple Recipes.

Sweet Apples and Cider.—One peck of sweet apples, peeled, cut in half, and cores scooped out. Put in a granite kettle, cover well with cider made from sour apples. Tie a small piece of stick cinnamon in a cloth and place in the kettle. Boil until a rich red color. Can in glass jars. You do not need sugar in this recipe.

Mint Apple Jelly.—Wash the apples, but do not peel. Cut in quarters and cover with water; boil 20 minutes and strain through jelly bag. Take two cupsful of juice to one cupful of sugar; boil 10 minutes, or until it jellies. Put in a sprig of mint just before it is done, stir it around and then take it out. It gives just the right flavor.

Apple Salad.—Cut equal parts of apples and celery in small cubes or pieces, one cupful of English walnuts. Mix all together and moisten with boiled salad dressing. Serve on lettuce leaves.

Apple Snow.—For a family of four use the stiffly whipped white of one egg, one-half cupful of sugar. Into this grate one sour apple, stirring all the time. Serve on gelatine.

Fried Apples.—Use good cooking apples, not peeled, but cored and sliced, 1½ quarts; ½ cupful of butter, 1 cupful of granulated sugar. Put the butter in the skillet and when it has melted put in the apples and sugar. Cover closely and stir often to keep from burning. When they are done they will have a rich, thick, delicious syrup on them. Serve while hot.

To the Woman Driver.

One of the first problems of driving a car is to learn what to do when trouble appears. The mere learning to drive is mechanical and can be gradually mastered, just as learning to run a sewing machine or to play croquet. The following articles should be carried by every woman driver in case of emergency. Book of instructions, emergency can of gasoline, emergency can or oil, tire chains or mud hooks, several spark plugs, ignition wires, spare tires inflated, extra inner tubes in bags, blow-out patches, tube patches, extra hose for radiator, overalls or aprons, gauntlets and short gloves, goggles, windshield cleaner, whisk broom, soap and towels, large handkerchief and wide-brimmed hat for work in the sun, special cushions for back in long drives, a high-grade jack, matches, full set of car tools, good dry batteries (dry batteries can be used to run the car a short distance in case of trouble with the regular ignition and can also be used for a trouble light), trouble light with plenty of lamp cord, bottle of glue, box of cotton pins, nails, bolts, nuts, screws, tire valves, tire caps, and similar items.

A junk box is also a handy thing to have in the car at all times. This is a small box with some pieces of wire, nuts and bolts of various sizes, cotter pins, extra tire valves, and some pieces of strong string. It is surprising how valuable one of these little things can be when you are miles away from a garage and trouble appears.

Rust Protection.

Most iron and steel instruments about the home rust out before they wear out. In damp weather, the best method of preventing rust is to coat all unpainted parts of the machinery with a heavy oil, thick enough so it will not run off. This coating keeps air and moisture away and prevents rust from starting.

LEAVING A FRIENDLY WEST

Hughes Believes That He Has Won in California

APPLAUD HIS TARIFF POSITION

Spoke at Sacramento Last Night—Now Swings East

Sacramento, Calif., Aug. 23.—On his way out of California, Charles Evans Hughes is secure in the feeling that he is leaving friends and that the majority of both Republicans and Progressives are on his side for the November election. Last night, Mr. Hughes spoke in Sacramento; he will swing back toward the East, speaking next at Reno, Nevada. The state fight in California is expected to have little effect on the presidential election. Mr. Hughes, speaking in Fresno, brought quick response from the citrus growers, who have been hard hit by the Underwood act and in the San Joaquin valley the grain raisers and townspeople who came out to see the governor applauded his speeches enthusiastically.

Addressing an audience in Los Angeles Monday night, Hughes said he had not handed down the flag he raised in New York. "I am against every abuse of community interest for the sake of private advantage," he declared. He outlined his views on the prospective tariff, dominant Americanism, national unity and preparedness. He urged the need of industrial cooperation. He declared that he favored the protection of the generations of the future by preventing children from being drawn too early into industrial life.

Boston, Aug. 23.—In Maine the state campaign, which is this year so important a barometer of the national campaign, is on in full swing. The Republicans fired their opening gun Monday night; the Democrats continue the assault begun by Speaker Clark last week. Congressman Gardner of Massachusetts renewed his campaign against Secretary Daniels, and Senator Lewis propounded some Democratic questions for Mr. Hughes to answer.

"UNCROWNED QUEEN OF GREECE" DEAD

Sophie Tri-coups Exercised a Wonderful Power, Perhaps as Much as Empress Eugene in France—She Was Striking in Several Respects.

Athens, Greece, Aug. 23.—Sophie Tri-coups, one of the most remarkable women of modern Greece, is dead. She had been termed "The Uncrowned Queen of Greece," an appellation fully warranted by the facts, for it is doubtful if even the Empress Eugene ever exercised so much direct control over the destinies of France as this woman did over the fate of modern Greece.

She was a daughter of Spyridon Tri-coups, the first premier of free Greece, and the sister of Harilaos Tri-coups, who during the last quarter of the nineteenth century completely dominated Greek politics. As a child she made the acquaintance of Lord Byron who was a familiar friend in her father's house and it was her father who pronounced the funeral address over the coffin of the English poet. Her youth was passed in London, where her father was Greek minister, but on the entry of her brother into the political arena, she returned to Athens and took up her place at his side. Nor did she ever leave him, remaining unmarried, she devoted her entire time to aiding him in his political work and in looking after his personal comfort.

A woman of striking appearance, she was the more conspicuous by the fact that she never changed the style of her clothing from the date of the death of her father in 1873. She retained even

"I DON'T SUFFER ANY MORE"

"Feel Like a New Person," says Mrs. Hamilton.

New Castle, Ind.—"From the time I was eleven years old until I was seventeen I suffered each month so I had to be in bed. I had headache, backache and such pains I would cramp double every month. I did not know what it was to be easy a minute. My health was all run down and the doctors did not do me any good. A neighbor told my mother about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took it, and now I feel like a new person. I don't suffer any more and I am regular every month."—Mrs. HAZEL HAMILTON, 822 South 15th St.

When a remedy has lived for forty years, steadily growing in popularity and influence, and thousands upon thousands of women declare they owe their health to it, is it not reasonable to believe that it is an article of great merit?

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Enthuse Local Dealers!

SUCCESS or failure for the manufacturer's product is made over the counter of the local dealer.

What the storekeeper says carries weight with customers, sways the jobbers, and makes for repeat orders.

When you are considering a national advertising campaign, Mr. Manufacturer, ask yourself this question:

What is most likely to impress the storekeeper and to gain his favor? Profit-making goods that sell quickly.

And what are the quick-sellers for him? Products that are advertised in the newspapers that are read by all his possible customers.

Once again the charts of the past and present and future seem to point to THE DAILY NEWSPAPER.

No questions as to "past performances" for two successive International Window Display Weeks conducted by the newspapers have written the greatest story ever of continent-wide "dealer influence."

There are other methods of rousing the "dealer interest," of course—but they are "as salt on the tail" compared with the close-bore shot-gun method of game bagging.

Sending the salesman around with the proofs to "ginger up" the storekeeper is not so important when the manufacturer advertises his goods in the newspaper.

Newspaper advertising is a "self-starter." Storekeepers are educated to co-operate with it—educated by the newspapers, educated by their own experience. The appearance of the advertising is a signal to the dealer to put the goods in the window—and prepare to play the sales intermezzo on the keys of his cash-register.

Ask the Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers' Association, 806 World Building, New York, to send you the book, "Your Messenger," which tells you more about it.

MUCH SECRECY.

Surrounds the Case of the Owego in Washington.

Washington, Aug. 23.—The case of the steamer Owego is surrounded at the state department with much secrecy and a Berlin dispatch yesterday was the first disclosure that a note had been dispatched to the German government.

The Owego, having some Americans on board, was reported having been fired on ten times in the Mediterranean by a submarine early in the month. She proceeded to port and it was not made plain whether she had been fired on without warning or attempted to escape.

The fact that the German government appears to have no information lends strength to a contention that the attacking submarine may have been Austrian.

Fitzgerald is In.

Boston, Aug. 23.—John F. Fitzgerald, former mayor of Boston, filed nomination papers yesterday as a Democratic candidate for United States senator in the September primaries. Papers also were filed by Charles H. Cole and John E. McEvoy as Democratic candidates for governor.
